

A time gone by

No, it is not some nostalgic shot of grandfather tilling the soil back at the turn of the century. It's an Amish farmer driving a six-horse disking rig to ready his field for corn planting. The Arcola-Arthur, Ill. Amish farm settlement numbers several hundred Amish, who still cling to their ancient ways to till the soil. This scene is common as the Spring planting gets underway, where the horse is still king over the farm tractor. (UPI Telephoto)

Lock repair under way

POINT MARION, Pa. (AP) — The Army Engineers estimated Monday it will be three days to a week before a damaged lock on a Monongahela River dam is repaired and towboats and barges can again pass through the lock.

A towboat, pushing two barges upstream, nosed into the lock at Point Marion Saturday night, but couldn't stop and rammed the upper gates, knocking them out of kilter.

Water from the upper pool poured through the damaged gates, rapidly dropping the river level along an 11-mile stretch between Point Marion and another dam upstream at Morgantown, W. Va.

About 50 barges, many laden with coal, were trapped.

To repair the damage, workers will temporarily block the flow of water into the lock, lift out the battered gates and replace them with spares. The Engineers figure this will take about three days. But they say if other damage is found, it could prolong the job for a week.

States have duty to regulate sex material available to young

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court told the states Monday they have a right — even a duty — to decide what kind of sex material youngsters may see and read.

"The well-being of its children is of course a subject within the state's constitutional power to regulate," Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said in a 5-3 decision.

Moreover, Brennan said, parents, teachers and others who have the prime responsibility of rearing children "are entitled to the support of laws designed to and discharge of that responsibility."

The ruling was the court's first venture into a growing kind of pornography law—one designed especially for children.

A New York statute was specifically endorsed. And in a companion case, the court threw out a Dallas ordinance geared to movies, because the justices found the classification standards vague.

Here, too, the court said through Justice Thurgood Marshall—that "a state may regulate the dissemination to juveniles of, and their access to, material objectionable as to them, but which a state clearly could not regulate as to adults."

The vote was 8 to 1.

Justices William O. Douglas and Hugo L. Black filed a dissent in the New York case.

Commenting wryly that "the juvenile delinquents I have known are mostly over 50 years of age," Douglas described the court as "the nation's board of censors."

In another area, in a civil rights case from Mississippi, the court said states can control picketing outside government buildings though this may have "a chilling effect" on protest and freedom of expression.

The test, Brennan said in a 7-2 decision, is whether the anti-picketing law "clearly and precisely delineates its reach in words of common understanding" and is administered in good faith.

The court found the Mississippi law, enacted in 1964 and used to convict about 35 civil rights pickets who demonstrated outside the Hattiesburg courthouse, passed muster on both counts.

The pickets, alleging racial discrimination in voter registration, urged Negroes to register.

In other significant actions the court:

—Refused to tinker with a consent agreement that makes it difficult for a group of state and city governments to recover millions of dollars they claimed they were overcharged by publishers of children's books.

—Set the stage for an important decision in the field of civil rights by agreeing to decide next term if the Railway Car-men Union and the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway worked a scheme to keep Negroes from job promotion.

—Ruled that the Los Angeles Times must give up three San Bernardino newspapers it bought in 1964 for $15 million.

NASA contract costing more than expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency, already braced for heavy cuts of its 1969 budget by the House next week, has suffered a new and damaging setback: An official report that it erred in not insisting that a multimillion dollar Lunar module subcontract be awarded through competitive bidding.

The subcontract for radar equipment, was estimated originally at $23.4 million. It already has cost the government $112 million, says the General Accounting Office, the agency which checks executive spending for Congress.

Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. is the prime contractor for the lunar module, one of three major sections of the Apollo spacecraft that is to take men to the moon. The subcontract named in the GAO report is the Radio Corporation of America.

Citing the report on the Senate floor, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, ranking Republican on the Senate Space committee, said she has generally opposed any large scale cuts in the space budget but added:

"If the Grumman radar subcontract is illustrative of the manner in which the space agency maintains surveillance over its appropriated funds, it would appear that substantial savings could be realized merely by strengthening the agency's contracting practices."

The GAO report is almost certain to have an immediate effect on the House, whose members expect to begin debate May 1 on the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The GAO report, issued last week, criticized NASA for approving Grumman's proposal "to award, without specific competition, the procurement of the lunar module radars to the Radio Corporation of America."

RCA was awarded the subcontract on a cost-plus-fixed-fee basis in November 1963 at an estimated cost of $23.4 million, GAO said.

Grumman's selection of RCA was made during the preparation of the lunar module proposal under an informal agreement whereby RCA was expected to be a major subcontractor, GAO said, despite the fact that "prospective contractors were cautioned not to make any moral or legal agreements with possible subcontractors."

RCA obtained proposals from prospective manufacturers to determine whether it should make the radar equipment or buy it from another source, the report said.

"On Aug. 20, 1962, a team composed of one Grumman employee and three RCA employees reviewed and evaluated the five proposals," GAO said. "The team rated RCA's proposal superior on cost, weight and performance to the other proposals."

The following April, GAO said, a NASA official informed a top official in the Apollo program "that he believed that the subcontractor (RCA) did not have a demonstrated capability of producing the type of radar specified for the lunar module."

And still another NASA official advised that "RCA had not developed a radar of the type required . . . nor was there any evidence that RCA had applied the desired techniques to the radars it had developed," GAO said.

Thereafter the Manned Space Craft Center in Houston recommended to NASA that Grumman "be permitted to contract directly with RCA for the radar equipment," GAO said.

Display American flag urged by Barrett Legion

CANADENSIS — Barmarking the drive by the Evans-Blitz American Legion Post 922 and the Auxiliary to have the American flag displayed frequently and often, 12 flags were presented to the Barrett Elementary Center.

David Guthrie, principal of the school received the flags, which will be placed in each classroom in the school. Jules Muraro, Americanism chairman of the Legion, and Mrs. Mary Albert, Americanism chairman for the Auxiliary, made the presentation at a recent post meeting.

At the ceremony, Commander George Canales pointed out that this action pointed up the importance of the display of the American flag and hoped that the display of the flag would be done by all area residents on legal holidays. To aid residents in obtaining flags, sets are available from the post through any member.

Junk yard ordinance under study

POCONO LAKE — An ordinance to regulate the establishment, location and maintenance of junk yards will be enacted by the Tunkhannock Township Supervisors at their next meeting on May 1 to be held at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Isaac Henning, township secretary.

The ordinance provides that junk dealers must obtain a license at an annual cost of $250, after making application. No dealer shall be allowed to keep more than one place of business within the township for the purpose of dealing in junk. Other provisions require that a health nuisance or menace to the community be avoided including prohibiting the storage of garbage of flammable articles on the premises. The ordinance also states the area must be screened from the public's view. Violators could be fined up to $200 or five days in jail, the ordinance stipulates.

DV junior historians visit Rome

MILFORD — The Junior Historians of Delaware Valley went to Rome recently where they attended a regional meeting at the host-chapter of North Bradford County.

Miss Frances Hankins received a 25-year pin. Of the 26 years of the Junior Historians' existence, she has been an advisor for 25 years.

After the award was made, two students from the host-chapter discussed their project which was the reconstruction of a one-room schoolhouse. They showed slides that provided the steps that they used in doing their work.

Miss Elizabeth Homet gave a talk on French Azilum. The French Azilum was to be a refuge for the ill-fated Queen Marie Antoinette of France.

Miss Homet is related to the French that sailed up the Susquehanna River in 1793 in Durham boats. This was the time of the French Revolution and the storming of the Bastille. The French Azilum was pre-planned town that was built by architects from Wilkes-Barre.

The colony was started in 1793 and broke up in 1803. In 1954, the French Azilum Inc. was formed to stir interest in the reconstruction of the colony.

Attending the regional meeting at Rome were John Hallman, Christine Richards, Judy Barnett, Joan McCormack and Christine Crawford. Advisors attending were Miss Frances Hankins and David Edwards.

Three county area

Estate develops into playground

By PEGGY BANCROFT
Record Correspondent

SOUTH STERLING — Probably Benjamin Beach never dreamed 200 years ago, that millions of "unfortunates" who live in the cities would one day play on the land he bought from the Cadwalladers of Philadelphia.

And the Cadwalladers of Philadelphia could not have foreseen that the region they owned, all of Monroe and Pike Counties and most of Wayne County, would one day be dotted with speedboats, golf courses, and bikinis.

There is no record that Benjamin Beach welcomed tourists to the Poconos. Indeed, he was probably busy, back in 1768, hewing a homestead out of a wilderness, raising a family, and keeping his scalp intact.

But he did become the grandfather of one Theodore Alonso Dunning, who, in turn became the father of Edward Dunning, who built the Sterling Hotel, now The Sterling Inn.

And Benjamin Beach would probably have been thrilled at Sunday's celebration at The Sterling Inn, marking 35 years that this country inn has been owned and operated by the same family: Mrs. Alice Julian, Carmen and Henry Arneberg.

The history of The Sterling Inn is part of the history of South Sterling, one of the prettiest villages in these mountains, where people came so long ago to rock on the porches and stroll on the lawns and play a rousing game of croquet in the shade of gnarled apple trees.

A poet a century ago expounded: "This region casts a veritable spell over those who visit it. Not only owing to altitude, but also the superior drainage due to slope, the abundance of rocks (and they're still here) and the peculiar lightness of the soil, the atmosphere is remarkably dry. The pine-sweetened air is soft and mild. In it is the balmy and exhilarating cordial of the primeval forest. There is no malaria. The nights are cool and yet the altitude is not great enough to cause discomfort to the most sensitive."

Familiar to the sylvan charm of South Sterling, the writer long ago noted "the many brawling mountain brooks which will delight the angler who wishes to keep in touch with his favorite pastime. Here nature smiles indulgently upon the visitors. The charm of this region cannot be exaggerated."

Yes, the "tree-girl uplands" of South Sterling, with the birch, beech, pines, hemlocks, spruces and maples, were recognized as "indeed Nature's own garden." The dirt road winding in front of The Sterling Inn is gone; the slow-paced vacation pleasures have changed. The Dunning homestead has grown and grown from one small home in a wilderness to eight large buildings on one hundred acres.

Local grange endorses proposals

BRODHEADSVILLE — More than 30 members of the Monroe-Pike Pocono Grange discussed the constitutional proposals adopted by the convention during its quarterly meeting Saturday in the Zion Lutheran and Reformed Church in Brodheadsville.

"Although the State Grange does as a whole say 'yes' to the five proposals, we feel the people should think this out for themselves, individually," Richard G. Seidel, master of M(P)G Grange of Brodheadsville, said.

"Some parts may fit in better for other groups and other areas, but we think we will get some benefits by adopting them," Seidel added.

The State Grange was against setting up the Constitutional Convention in the beginning.

Fellow Barrett Republicans:-

Let's think about some accomplishments of a woman who has served her community and Republican Party for many years as a gracious worker and official.

Lydia Christenson was first elected Republican Committeewoman in 1958 and has served 5 successive terms. She has served compatibly with 3 Republican Committeemen, and under 5 County Republican Chairmen. Lydia has always respected the people's choice in the Primary Election and has always worked for Republicans in the November General Elections.

Lydia Christenson has served as past president of the Auxiliary to Legion Post 922; past junior vice president of the VFW Auxiliary; past treasurer of the Barrett Council of Republican Women; present corresponding secretary of the Republican Club of Barrett Township; treasurer of World War I Veterans Auxiliary.

Mrs. Christenson and her husband, Carl, have raised a daughter and son and have nine grandchildren all living in Barrett Township.

Philip Shaller is an active community-minded Republican. His interests include the holding of official positions in the Lions Club; Cub Scouts; Fire Company. He is a charter member of the present Young Republicans of Monroe County, now serving as treasurer. He, his wife, Virginia, and four children live in Mountainhome.

During the past two years, Lydia Christenson and Philip Shaller, present Republican Committee members seeking re-election, have worked closely with the people of Barrett Township. Due to this spirit of co-operation and energetic interest, the Republicans of Barrett now say THEY ARE THE MAJORITY PARTY.

To maintain this forward motion and to continue building a Republican Party in Barrett, all Republicans will be welcome to join and take pride in

HENRY A. FINN

On April 23rd the people of the 139th Legislative District (Wayne, Pike and Monroe Counties) will nominate an individual to the Office of REPRESENTATIVE.

I, Henry A. Finn, a resident of the 139th Legislative District, am a candidate for this Office on the Republican ticket.

Having a good knowledge of my neighbors' ideas, problems and needs... and also being a successful businessman... feel qualified to seek this office. It is my desire if elected to participate in no other business but that of being your Representative.

I have always been a Republican and have spent most of my life residing in this 139th District.

It is my desire if nominated and elected to pledge:

1. To be present for regular personal weekly meetings.
2. To exercise prudent care of tax monies.
3. To continue to live in the 139th Leg. District at Waymart, Pa. among the people who elect me.
4. To minimize government intervention.
5. To promote greater efficiency in Government.
6. To work for the preservation of the individual freedom of choice.

I fully realize if elected I will become a public servant and it will be my obligation to function in such a manner so as to serve you the people with SINCERITY... INTEGRITY and HARD WORK.

I sincerely solicit your VOTE and SUPPORT

HENRY A. FINN

Candidate For REPRESENTATIVE 139th DISTRICT

Don't pass up your vote

Today is Tuesday, April 23, 1968. Your immediate reply could very easily be — So what?

We mention this date only because it is the one set aside for Pennsylvania's primary election.

As the dawn rises on our state, indications point to a tight turnout of voters in Monroe, Pike and Northampton counties. There is very little to get excited about.

However, we warn that those residents of this area who pass up their right to vote also give up their right to gripe when results and hopes don't match measurements.

Although there isn't anything truly exciting on an individual basis, the seven proposals being presented as a result of the Constitutional Convention should receive everyone's attention.

Approval or disapproval of the seven proposals crammed into five questions will either rewrite or retain our state constitution. Once again, it is up to the individual to make his wishes known.

Remember, if there are any changes made in the constitution, they will be made today, not at a later date.

John Garman's criticism of the manner in which Dr. Evan C. Reese has been running the Republican Party in Monroe County has added spark to the struggle for the GOP County Chairmanship. Garman, a professor at East Stroudsburg State College, is waging a late starting write-in campaign for the chairman's position.

The other race of true interest in this region is in the Republican division of the 139th General Assembly District, where J. Russell Eshback is the incumbent.

However, Edwin Krawitz, who lists his address as East Stroudsburg, and Henry A. Finn, Waymart, are in the struggle for the right to oppose Peter J. O'Brien, of Mount Pocono, for the office in November's showdown. O'Brien is the only Democrat in the picture.

There might not be a lot of excitement on the surface, but each of us is obligated to vote.

You might be sorry if you miss the chance.

Possible money supply

The State Senate, they say, is scrounging around for money to finance a stopgap teachers' pay increase. So desperate is the search that heretofore untouchables like welfare funds and money to finance industrial expansion are being considered for appropriation.

With things that bad, you would think the Senate would be practicing strict economy.

But the leaders of both parties have their names on a bill that would increase substantially salaries paid to the chairmen and members of the Turnpike Commission and the Liquor Control Board.

Liquor Control Board Chairman William Z. Scott would be increased from $18,000 to $25,000 a year; the other two board members from $17,000 to $24,000.

Turnpike Commission Chairman Lester J. Burlein would be increased from $15,000 to $25,000 and members Billy Meehan and Pat Kerwin would be boosted from $13,000 to $20,000.

Since these are patronage jobs and political plums for which all politicians vie, the salaries are out of line.

Maybe teachers' protests can sprag these increases.

If the teachers want to help the senate find the money for their increases they might check the working time in Harrisburg of state employees in the $10,000 or better bracket.

The clerks and lower echelon employees on civil service have to be there on working days. But the brass doesn't and many of them aren't.

If we can do without them three days a week we can do without them five. Think of the money we could save.

—Pottsville Republican

Stamp news

May busy month

The month of May will again keep the cover collectors busy as the United States will release the six-cent "Support Our Youth" stamp commemorating the Organization of the Elks Clubs at Chicago, Ill., May 1.

May 15th will see the release of the 10-cent Air Mail commemorative at Washington, D.C. for the 50th anniversary of the Air Mail, which was started in 1918 and the United States issued two sets of Air Mail stamps at that time.

The first set was for the regular service and the second set was issued for the night service.

May 17 at Washington, D.C. the six-cent "Law and Order" commemorative will be released.

Club News

The Pocono Mountain Stamp Club will meet April 30 at 8 p.m. This will again be a mixture night as time would not permit all the mixture at the last meeting.

The club will hold their annual Closing Dinner at the Rhineland Restaurant Tuesday, June 4, and all collectors are invited to attend. Reservations may be made through Rudy Butsch, Stroudsburg RD. 1 or telephone (421-6531).

Crucial contribution

WASHINGTON — The impatient attacks by Vietnam critics on President Johnson show one thing above all else.

They show what a crucial contribution Mr. Johnson made to the steadiness of the government of the United States by freeing himself from election-year politics.

And he did it at a time when steadiness—and detachment from political motive—can make the difference between successful peace and calamity.

It is evident that the North Vietnamese Communists are testing the fiber and firmness of Lyndon Johnson exactly as the North Korean Communists tested Harry Truman.

President Truman, who in 1951 had not removed himself from renomination, gave in to the Communists on the ground it would look as though he were holding up the talks unnecessarily. Truman went along with their demand to have the peace negotiations conducted on Communist-held territory. The result was that the United States delegation had to be escorted to the first meeting under Communist military guard in vehicles flying white flags of surrender and, on arrival, found itself sealed a foot below the Communists.

Free of pressure

This time, free of political pressures, President Johnson is not yielding even to such trivial maneuvers. There is good reason why Vietnam talks should be in a neutral capital where neither side would be advantaged.

It is easy to see why Hanoi would try to repeat the Korean maneuver, but it is hard to see why Americans should be harassing the President with the false argument that he is "rebuffing" Hanoi and is stalling in getting talks going when he is trying to get them underway under circumstances genuinely fair to both sides.

At this point Johnson's freedom from political encumbrances adds a new dimension to his ability to remain steady, cool, and firm. He doesn't have to worry about pleasing the hawks and he doesn't have to appease the doves. He can make reasonable concessions to North Vietnam and he can refuse a settlement which would mean putting the Hanoi Communists in control of the Saigon government.

He can be flexible or inflexible, as circumstances require, without even being tempted to weigh how his decisions might affect his renomination or re-election. He can do at every turn what he thinks best for the United States—and that is exactly what he intends to do.

Gift to office

This is the great gift which Lyndon Johnson had made to the office of President of the United States at a moment when a false move by the U.S. could imperil the peace of all Southeast Asia and when the right decisions can fortify the peace.

He knew he was in trouble with the American voters. But he knew it was more than likely that he would be renominated and entirely possible he would be re-elected. But he withdrew and said it was "irrevocable."

No wonder this man is today demonstrating a special kind of poise and tranquility and detachment—unconcerned when he is branded a "hugger" by his Vietnam critics because he supports a conference site allied to neither side. It is a fair judgment that if Hanoi does not want to meet in a neutral capital it is not interested in serious negotiations under any circumstances.

It should be understood that, as the President views it, he is not reversing his course in Vietnam or altering his objective. He has always sought to bring Hanoi to the conference table. He carried out a 37-day bombing pause to induce Hanoi to talk and Hanoi refused. Now he is carrying out a partial cessation of bombing to see if Hanoi will agree to a reciprocal de-escalation so that all bombing can be stopped.

This is not a reversal of Johnson policy. It is an application of it.

The man who gave up running for a second term in order better to pursue the cause of peace in Asia is not going to put his name to a phony settlement. But he will need all his new freedom to prevent it.

Coffee cools candidates

WASHINGTON—Something called the Coffee Information Service, in New York, has sent me an exciting little booklet called, "12 Ways Coffee Can Help You Win Elections." It almost goes without saying that if you're worried about losing an election, coffee can help you toss and turn all night.

I wrote to the coffee promoters and requested the booklet after reading an ad about it in a political publication. Although I'm not running for office myself, if the nation's politicians are about to employ a secret weapon, I want to know about it. Besides, since I drink some 10 cups of coffee per day myself, I was mildly interested.

However, before reviewing the 12 ways to win elections with coffee, I must say that I don't like coffee at night, particularly at campaign parties, etc. I prefer a punch, lightly laced with Old Blended, or, lacking that, something on the rocks. It makes me less wide-awake and hostile.

Grounds to leave

Frankly, if I ever went to a candidate's party and he served me nothing but coffee, I would find that grounds to leave the premises in an instant.

The booklet opens by quoting various politicians who allow that coffee parties have been very helpful in their careers. Among those mentioned are Lyndon Johnson (you remember him, he's the President), Sen. Howard H. Baker (R., Tenn.) and Postmaster General Larry O'Brien. It even quotes Cardinal Richelieu (1585-1642), who said, "The fate of a nation often is decided over a cup of coffee." (Not this nation; its fate often is decided over a bowl of chili.)

In addition to all the advice about how to give a coffee party and how to brew the stuff, candidates are advised to put signs in the windows of their campaign offices: "Meet So and So. Drop in for coffee."

The booklet reminds us that coffee is the "think drink" and that it is helpful in getting folks to concentrate and listen to what you're saying. I wonder if anyone, having been served coffee by a candidate, ever said that he still wasn't sure which way he'd vote and, in the meantime, he'd take tea and see.

(Maybe I shouldn't have made that last remark; now the coffee people will write me unpleasant letters. They're full of the old beans, you know.)

Maybe we should elect de Gaulle President of the U.S. Then he might help our economy by raiding FRANCE'S Treasury for gold.

I don't mind the government being in a hurry to build a supersonic airliner. I just wish they wouldn't keep referring to it as a "crash program."

Capitol alerted to fire threat

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Congressional authorities are on the alert for a possible attempt to set fire to the nation's Capitol and its surrounding complex of office buildings.

Dozens of militant Negroes and anti-war protesters with known Communist ties have been systematically infiltrating Washington in small groups for several weeks.

United States security officials believe they are gathering here for the "second round" of attacks to destroy and disrupt the nation's capital and its key government functions.

Several of these militants, including a 27-year-old light-skinned Negro from Detroit, are known to be experts in making fire-bombs or to have served as "paymasters" for fires set during last summer's big city riots.

Their convergence on Washington, along with several persons on the Secret Service's list of "dangerous persons," is causing growing concern among those assigned to guard the safety of government officials and members of Congress.

The ominous threat that the Capitol might be fired first came while smoke billowed over Washington during the April 4-8 burning and looting following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

At one crucial point during this planned violence, the Federal Bureau of Investigation alerted Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., that a group of black militants had loaded a panel truck with gasoline and was headed for the Capitol.

Firm action

As outlined to federal authorities by an FBI informant, the militants' bold plan called for the driver to run the truck into the underground parking area of one of the congressional office buildings and then ignite it.

This motorized fire-bomb, the informant stated, was to be a diversionary maneuver to draw away police and federal troops guarding the Capitol building. Then other teams of hardcore militants were prepared to rush the Capitol from several directions after arriving on the scene by high-speed automobiles.

However, the blitz attack was never carried out.

At the last minute the militants called it off, after learning that the Capitol grounds had been reinforced with extra police and federal troops. For the first time since the Civil War, troops were actually stationed inside the Capitol. This show of force was too much for the militants.

According to congressional sources, Capitol police could make no move to arrest the militants in the gasoline-loaded panel truck since it did not come within the area where they have jurisdiction.

Collegians to vote

This involved college generation is being given a rare chance to vote collectively on their choice for president. They also will be given their say on what course the United States should pursue in Viet Nam. And they will express their opinion on government spending in the urban crisis on Wednesday.

Students will be asked to choose their first, second, and third choices from a list of presidential candidates who have "significant support" on the nation's campuses, in the opinion of student leaders. They met in February in Washington to draw up the ballot. The original list was all-inclusive — from Fred Halstead of the Socialist Workers Party to the indefatigable Republican, Harold E. Stassen.

Range of choices

The Viet Nam choices range from "immediate withdrawal of American forces" to "all out American military effort" and from "permanent cessation of bombing" to "use of nuclear weapons." The priorities suggested for government spending include "education, job training and employment opportunities, housing, income subsidy, riot control and stricter law enforcement."

The New York headquarters of Choice 68, as the students themselves call the upcoming college referendum, told Editorial Research

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Hopeful news in medicine

The year 1967 was a most productive medical year during which there were many startling advances in medicine and surgery. Certainly the high light was the spectacular transplantation of a heart from one human to another. Along with these achievements were many that were less spectacular but which probably will eventually be responsible for heart grafts to "take" and survive.

Dr. Arthur Kornberg and a team of scientists were able to produce, in the laboratory a man-made virus. For this remarkable discovery Dr. Kornberg was honored with a Nobel Prize.

This gigantic achievement may not have been spectacular enough to capture the front page attention of all news media. It might have if it had been shown that this discovery will details of the proposed attack on the Capitol, these lawmakers say they expect no action from Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

Past statements by the government's chief prosecutor, they argue, clearly indicate that he has little stomach for prosecuting law violators among the black militants.

Only a rising tide of protest to the White House by the average man on the street, they claim, can force Clark to act.

Cracking down

New warnings that attempts will be made to put the torch to the Capitol are now being carefully studied by congressional leaders and their security officials. The critical period, they say, will be from late April through August, when Congress will recess for the national political conventions.

Despite the burning and looting in Washington early this month, when more than 800 fires were set in the city, not a single window was broken or other damage inflicted on the Capitol or its billion dollar complex of buildings.

James M. Powell, chief of the Capitol police, credits this impressive security record to the firmness which Speaker McCormack permitted him and his men to use.

Under plans approved by McCormack, no person was allowed to enter the Capitol grounds without an official pass and all looters traveling on nearby streets were stopped and held for District of Columbia police.

For instance, during a one-hour period on April 4 more than 26 cases of liquor were taken from looters by Capitol police and turned over to city police, who at the time were under instructions not to arrest looters. These orders were changed when people around the country, watching the looting on television, began to bombard the White House with thousands of telephone calls and wires.

From the underground

One bit of disturbing information uncovered by the Secret Service last week was a schedule of events published in one of the underground papers now being used to alert revolutionaries in the U.S.

Sandwiched between a report of a nature walk in Rock Creek Park and the notice of a black student rally in the city, the announcement read:

"Tuesday, April 24: Riots break out in 50 major American cities; vice president, entire cabinet, 23 governors assassinated; all students go on strike; anti-war demonstrators take control of Pentagon, President Johnson moved to Hanoi."

After a copy of the paper was turned over to the Secret Service by an aide of Vice President Humphrey, government security agencies immediately began a full-scale investigation. At this writing, the probe is still underway.

Reports that as of an early April date for cut-off of invitations, some 1,449 colleges and universities had agreed to participate.

The poll will thus embrace about five million undergraduates, or 85 per cent of the nation's total. Significantly, of these, about 35 per cent will be old enough to vote in earnest on Nov. 5, 1968.

The primaries in New Hampshire and Wisconsin proved beyond doubt that this year's breed of collegian is politically oriented. In both states, students poured in from many outside areas to campaign for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. Commenting on the Wisconsin results, the senator said they "proved New Hampshire was not just an accident We have shown the power of students — student power."

Choice 68 is the idea of a recent graduate of Michigan State University, Robert Harris. It is being financed totally by Time Magazine, but the students are running the show. In announcing that the poll would be held, James R. Shepley, Time's publisher, wrote: "Ultimately we agreed to finance all costs of the primary, which will be planned and conducted entirely by the students."

Even in this day of electronic journalism, tabulation of the college referendum will take a good bit of time. The young people who run Choice 68 say they will give out the results of the vote in Washington on the morning of Monday, May 6.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. McCarthy would appear on the eve of the vote to be the front-runners. But few bookies would care to take a bet on this kind of straw vote. In a similar situation in 1932 the Dartmouth student body voted heavily for Herbert C. Hoover and then on the same referendum endorsed every plank in Franklin D. Roosevelt's platform.

open horizons pointing to the actual formation of life itself. To be able to make a virus and the DNA, the messenger in the body that carries knowledge about the genes and the chromosomes, is truly one of the greatest advances in modern science.

This startling knowledge will give doctors a better insight into the cause, the cure, and more especially the prevention of all viral infections.

Even more important the whole study of cancer and leukemia may soon yield its secrets and permit saving the lives of thousands of people who succumb to malignant diseases. The scientists who uncovered DNA feel that they are just beginning to learn the intricacies of genes, their defects and their remedies.

M16 rifles effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — The decision for an all out push to supply South Vietnamese troops with the modern M16 rifle came nearly seven years after a Defense Department study called it the best "all around shoulder weapon in Vietnam."

During those seven years, American commanders in Vietnam repeatedly asked for more lightweight, rapid-firing M16s. But those requests, dating back as far as Oct. 19, 1962, went unfilled or, at best, partially filled. Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese, despite American bombing raids, supplied their troops and the Viet Cong with the Soviet-designed AK47 assault rifle. With the AK47 Communist troops can easily outgun South Vietnamese soldiers, armed with World War II vintage M1 rifles and carbines.

The history of the M16 is replete with malfunctions, some ballistic, but most bureaucratic. As a special House Armed Services subcommittee that investigated the M16 put it: "The manner in which the Army rifle program has been managed is unbelievable."

On May 15, 1967, two Army logistics experts told the House subcommittee that requests for the M16 to arm South Vietnamese had been met.

Yet 10 months later, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., returned from Vietnam and quoted Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces, as saying his repeated requests for M16 rifles for the Vietnamese had not been filled. It wasn't until April 19, 1968, that contracts were announced to sharply increase production so the guns could be supplied to South Vietnam.

Why did it take so long? The House subcommittee headed by Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said, "The division of responsibility makes it almost impossible to pinpoint responsibility when mistakes are made."

The Senate preparedness subcommittee also looked into the Army's rifle program.

A study of both subcommittee reports, plus interviews on Capitol Hill and at the Pentagon, turned up several factors which worked to slow down production of the M16, even as American involvement in Vietnam increased from a small military assistance command to more than half a million men.

Cost consciousness. At several points it was decided not to commit funds—or enough money—to this weapon.

The expectation, still awaiting fulfillment, that a revolutionary new shoulder weapon known as SPIW (Special Purpose Individual Weapon) was "just around the corner."

Failure to develop additional manufacturing sources for the M16, made only by Colt Industries, Inc., as well as failure to acquire years ago the manufacturing rights for the rifle.

A rash of incidents of jamming in combat many of which were traced to inadequate training in cleaning and maintenance of the M16.

In August 1961, the Advance Research Projects Agency of the office of the secretary of defense field tested the M16, then known as the AR15.

"The Vietnamese unit commanders and U.S. advisers who participated in the evaluation consider the AR15 rifle to be a more desirable weapon for use in Vietnam than the M1 rifle, BAR (Browning Automatic Rifle), Thompson submachinegun and M1 carbine," the test report said.

Veterans received $1.5 million in county during fiscal year

(Special to The Record)

NEW YORK — Some idea of the amount of money now being spent annually to aid Monroe County's war veterans and their families may be gleaned from government sources.

They show that expenditures in the form of cash benefits and services locally are at an all-time high.

During the past fiscal year, an estimated $1,567,000 in pensions, compensation, grants and other benefits went to local veterans or their beneficiaries.

The figure was derived from detailed data for each state, released by the Veterans Administration in its annual report, covering the past fiscal year. Sharing in the distribution were some 1,040 former servicemen and the relatives of others who have died.

The report shows that a total of $435,306,000 went to Pennsylvania State veterans and their families during the year. It was at the rate of $1,503 per veteran.

In other parts of the country it ranged above and below this amount, the average being $1,607.

Nationally, the total spent for veterans services was over $7.2 billion. It was distributed among 1,655,024 veterans and relatives of deceased veterans.

Only about 3 million of the 25 million war veterans who are alive today have qualified for assistance and are receiving benefits, the figures show.

The Administration has asked Congress for legislation that would increase veterans benefits in the next fiscal year. Principally, it calls for special emphasis to be given to newly discharged veterans to find satisfactory employment or to improve their career opportunities through vocational or academic training programs.

A breakdown of the $1,567,000 that Monroe County veterans and their dependents received in 1967 shows that about $945,000 of it represented compensation or pension benefits, including retirement pay.

Another $228,000 was in dividends and indemnity payments in connection with G. I. insurance policies.

Administrative costs and miscellaneous benefits accounted for the remainder.

ESSC club to make study tour

EAST STROUDSBURG — A three-day study-tour of Williamsburg, Va., will be conducted by the World Affairs Club of East Stroudsburg State College, Friday through Monday.

Dr. Mary Pickard, faculty adviser to the club, said that forty-one students have signed to participate in the study-tour. She also said that Mr. Joseph A. Jarvis, associate professor of social studies, and Mrs. Jarvis will make the tour with her and the students.

In addition to the Williamsburg study, the group will also visit either Jamestown or Yorktown.

County medical group backs plan to eliminate coroners

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Medical Society, which represents approximately 40 physicians in the county, and Rev. John N. Roberts, of Mountainhome, a delegate to the constitutional convention, strongly support the removal of the coroner from the State Constitution as provided in the Local Government article to be voted upon in today's primary election.

Speaking on behalf of the County Medical Society, Dr. James C. Fahl, East Stroudsburg physician and former president of the society, said, "The Monroe County Medical Society joins with the Pennsylvania Medical Society in encouraging the establishment of efficient medical examiner systems throughout the State."

Roberts pointed out that the Local Government proposal "only eliminates the office of coroner from the constitution and does not mandate a medical examiner system as reported in The Pocono Record."

"The coroners will continue as an office in the county until such time as the Legislature shall take action and devise another system," Roberts said. "Of course, such removal allows the Legislature to consider the possibility of a Medical Examiner system for Pennsylvania which the Legislature cannot do at the present."

Dr. Fahl pointed out that a "properly organized Medical Examiners office brings skilled, qualified personnel directly into the investigation of all fatal accidents. Because of their training these people can determine the exact cause of the accident and the true nature of the fatal injuries."

"All citizens deserve the protection provided by scientific truth," Dr. Fahl said. "The present coroner system does not assure that protection. The proposed constitution amendments will give our state and local governments an opportunity to develop the same type of Medical Examiner systems that exist in the most progressive states of our nation."

Roberts said that he was much concerned with the reported estimate by the Northampton coroner as quoted by Funeral Director Lester Pearson, of Bethlehem, and secretary of the Eastern Pennsylvania Funeral Directors Association.

"This estimate placed the cost of a Medical Examiner system in Northampton County at $2,400,000.00. This is absolutely ludicrous," Roberts said. "This outlandish and exaggerated estimate would create a system more extensive than the Monroe County General Hospital. No such plan is envisioned by either the Pennsylvania Medical Society nor by the Legislature."

Roberts said that in 39 counties in Pennsylvania the coroners office is already filled by physicians, one county (Philadelphia) has a Medical Examiner system because of its home-rule charter, and 27 counties, including the County of Monroe, have laymen as coroners.

The Monroe County Con-Con delegate stressed the fact that the Local Government article places emphasis on the possibilities for all political subdivisions, including counties.

"The existing form of county government will continue with some modification until such time as the people of the county wish to make a change. The modifications include the elimination of both the coroner and the surveyor from the constitutionally mandated list of row officers, allows the County Treasurer to succeed himself, and allows for the appointment of a Public Defender," Roberts said.

One answer to that one is, "But that's exactly the point."

Nobody could deny that young people have very special problems. Pressures. Drives. Impulses. Loneliness. Uncertainty. It's not hard to make a mistake. Even a disastrous one.

Yet very little maturity brings the realization that you're the You you have to live with all your life—mistakes and all.

If you're young, now's the best time to think about the moral values you'll want to live by five years from now. And ten. And twenty. The values, perhaps, you'd like your own children to share.

Look to your Faith now to help you find the way of life you really want for yourself. Then live your Faith.

You may find there is much more to you than you ever dreamed.

Archeologists meeting set in Easton

EASTON — The Forks of the Delaware Chapter 14 of the Society for Pennsylvania Archeology will hold a banquet April 27 in the Hotel Easton at 7 p.m.

Dr. Marian E. White will be main speaker, discussing "New York Archaeology: Some Problems and Some Answers," with slides. Dr. White is associate professor of Anthropology State University of New York at Buffalo.

An all-day symposium at Olin Hall of Science, Lafayette College, will include eight archeologists presenting their papers.

Speakers and their subjects are: Barry C. Kent, state archeologist at William Penn Memorial Museum, Harrisburg, on "Some recent investigation on Archea cultures in south-eastern Pennsylvania; Dr. Arthur Montgomery, "Fibrolite Axes of New Mexico";

Opening lead — five of spades.

Declarer sometimes finds it impossible to win as many tricks as he seems to have because he lacks the necessary entries to dummy's hand or his own to cash them.

This problem of communication between one hand and the other extends to the defenders also. They may suffer a similar loss of tricks because of inaccessibility to the right hand at the right moment.

It logically follows that each side, when possible, tries to interfere with the other's communications. This frequently takes the form of what is called a hold-up play.

Today's hand demonstrates the principle. West leads a spade on which East plays the king, and the fate of the contract rests on South's play to this trick.

If South ducks, as he should, East returns a spade. Declarer wins and enters dummy with a diamond in order to return a club. East takes the ace and, having run out of spades, returns a heart or a diamond. South wins, leads a club, and makes four trump.

But if South wins the opening spade lead, he is defeated. Whenever he tackles clubs, East wins with the ace and returns a spade. West's spades become established, and, since he still has the club king as an entry, South cannot make the contract. He goes down one or two, depending on how he plays.

The principle behind ducking the king is that the play cannot lose a trick but may gain one. Declarer reasons that if the spades are divided 4-4, it is immaterial whether he takes the trick or not. He cannot be defeated in either case.

If the spades are divided 5-3, the contract is in danger, but no harm comes from refusing the first spade.

It is when the spades are divided 6-2 that the real benefit comes from ducking the spade. The duck assures the contract except in the one case where West has both high clubs, but even then, nothing is lost by ducking the king.

Woman pastor fits into local churches

KUNKLETON — "She stepped into the pulpit with such confidence that we soon forgot that she was a woman and listened to her sermon."

That was the reaction of one of the congregation at the Kunkleton United Church of Christ to a woman minister who has temporarily filled the pulpits of two of the four churches in the parish.

The pulpit has been vacant since the resignation of Rev. Adan A. Bohner. He and Mrs. Bohner now live in their new home next to their old parsonage and he is available for pastoral counseling, but the pulpits have been filled by student supplies.

Among the supply pastors has been Ruth Mary Shaak, one of three women studying for the ministry at Lancaster Theological Seminary. On July 1 she will become the first woman pastor of the Jerusalem United Church of Christ in Penryn.

Born and raised in Millbach, her farm background and Pennsylvania Dutch heritage were other points in making the local congregations feel comfortable with her.

Miss Shaak can't remember the time when she did not want to be a minister. Although there were no ministers in her family, she was raised in the church and her family participated actively in its work.

At first she thought of the mission field, but later became convinced that her work lay in the rural church field with which she has been familiar.

She has found no discrimination because of her sex in seminary and expects none in her pastoral work.

The only part of her work which she feels her parishioners might feel doubtful is in the realm of marriage counseling, but she expects this to work out, too. She herself does not plan to marry.

"This is only because I, personally, could not be a wife, mother and minister at the same time. To me being a minister of a church demands my whole life."

"To me Christianity makes life complete. I have a deep religious conviction and I sincerely love working with people. It is my goal to present religion, not apart from life, but as part of the whole person and the whole life."

From the reaction of her local congregations, she will succeed.

Fill rounds or squares of pie dough with a mixture of thick jam and chopped nuts and seal in turnover fashion. After baking, sprinkle these good pastry cookies with confectioners' sugar.

Family argosy

Cancer drive rolls on in county

STROUDSBURG — Volunteers continue to crusade in the county for the 1968 Cancer Crusade which started April 1.

To date $3,772 or 33 per cent of the $11,000 goal has been collected, Richard J. Klotach, general chairman of the drive, announced Sunday night.

Dr. Francis P. Donatelli Jr., oral surgeon and president of the Monroe County Chapter of the Cancer Society, discussing oral cancer, said that in 1965 there were almost 600,000 reported cases of cancer. Of these, 21,000 cases were located in the mouth, pharynx and larynx. Ten thousand of the oral cases died from cancer the same year.

It is nine times more frequent in males than in females; more frequent after age 40 and more frequent on the lips than in the mouth.

The cause of oral cancer is unknown.

Contributing causes are thought to be poor fitting dentures, prolonged and frequent solar radiation, smoking, jagged teeth and alcoholism. It can occur in a well cared for mouth or a pre-cancerous lesion. Any lesion of the mouth should be removed immediately.

Early diagnosis is the most important part of the cure, with early knowledge of the lesions by the patient and his promptly seeking professional examination, as indicated by symptoms in the mouth such as any sore that does not heal in two weeks; difficulty in swallowing; persistent hoarseness or the presence of a white patch that will not wipe away.

Firemen answer two area calls

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Firemen from Delaware Water Gap, Portland, Mount Bethel and the Department of Forest and Waters helicopter, were called Friday at 1 p.m. to the parking area at Kittatinny Bench in New Jersey to douse a woods fire.

Firemen fought the blaze for an hour and a half before it was extinguished.

West End Fire Co. was called out Thursday night for a chimney fire at Beachwood Cabins in Gilbert.

WRINKLES

by Marie Davant

New York: Chemical science has found a white substance made with quicksilver that works wonders on wrinkled, roughened face and hands. Use it one time and it is entirely possible you will see improvement next morning. In a few days dry skin wrinkles start to vanish. Many of the small ones around the eyes and mouth have already disappeared. But that is not all "Old-Age" (weathered) brown spots on hands and arms—brown "age" darkness on surface of face and neck fades away! Rich oils lubricate pores so blackheads can slip out without squeezing. Surface pimples and blemishes and sears, outwardly caused, dry up or become less noticeable! But don't take my word for it. Make a 6-day test without risking one penny. Just get a jar of Peacock's Imperial Creme at your favorite department or drug store. Use this thrilling cream for 6 days—satisfaction guaranteed by The Mitchum Company or return unused portion to retailer for full refund. No questions asked. Peacock's Imperial Creme can work wonders for wrinkles, lines, brown spots and other weathered blemishes. You may obtain Imperial Creme for $2.00 at Rea and Dericks. Clip this out.

Camper may have caused woods fire

STROUDSBURG — A camper who failed to completely extinguish his camp fire Friday is believed to have caused a woods fire this past weekend on Blue Ridge Mountain near Pen Argyl. John Bitzer, Delaware district forester, said Monday.

Bitzer said a state helicopter was used to aid firemen battle the big blaze Friday and Saturday.

The helicopter made 66 water drops of 125 gallons each. Pen Argyl High School football field was used as the landing site for the helicopter and it was here that fire trucks reloaded the tank in the helicopter.

Bitzer warned that the ban on outdoor burning, made by Gov. Raymond Shafer last week, is still in effect and will not be lifted until the governor issues another proclamation. "Each day we go without rain, the fire danger increases and it will take that much more rain to wet the ground adequately to reduce the fire danger," Bitzer said.

Partial clearing after morning drizzle

Light turnout expected for today's election

STROUDSBURG — Most political observers are predicting a light turnout of voters in today's statewide primary election that seems to have little chance of drawing near the more than 12,000 votes cast in Monroe County during the May, 1967, primary.

Today's polling places throughout the county will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., eastern standard time. The weather forecast calls for early morning drizzle and clearing in the afternoon.

Both non-partisan and independent voters, as well as other minor party members, are reminded that they have the opportunity to vote on the five questions relating to the Constitutional Convention that will appear at the top of today's election ballot.

Lack of interest in most races is placed as the main reason for the expected sparse vote tally with several unopposed candidates a second reason.

Officials point out that in last May's primary county offices, including candidates for county commissioner, were at stake and drew a larger turnout.

One courthouse employee quipped, "If there was an election I wasn't going to vote in this would be the one."

Last minute emergency absentee ballot applications were being taken in the county registrar's office during a hectic Monday afternoon. Emergency ballots were being supplied up until 5 p.m. for the absentee vote estimated at more than 190.

Several watcher's certificates were also being distributed upon application. The certificates allow two election watchers for each candidate in today's election.

The county registrar's office will open at 7 a.m. today and remain open until the final tallies are reported.

Sitting as the county Board of Elections, the Monroe County

Commissioners will have a representative in the courthouse throughout the day following a meeting of the commissioners at 10 a.m. today.

General interest for area voters centers on the Republican contest for the party nomination in the 139th State Representative District where incumbent J. Russell Eshback faces Attorney Edwin Krawitz, East Stroudsburg, and Henry Finn, Wayne County.

Eshback, 69, is running on his record of nine years in the state house, although is expected to face tough competition from Finn, the Wayne businessman who has already unsuccessfully challenged the incumbent in 1966, but beat Eshback in Wayne County.

Top ranking Democrats are keeping a close eye on the race which will place young Attorney Peter J. O'Brien, Mt. Pocono, as the Democratic candidate against the GOP winner this November.

O'Brien is unopposed. The district is a long-standing GOP stronghold with a total of 19,891 registered Republicans and 12,396 Democrats, with the Democrats holding a 1,500 edge in Monroe County.

Local interest will also focus on a late developing and energetic campaign by an East Stroudsburg State College professor and incumbent Dr. Evan C. Reese for the GOP county chairmanship.

John Garman, Sciota, a chemistry professor at ESSC, will oppose Reese as a write-in candidate today, using party unity as a campaign issue.

On the Democratic slate former county commissioner Stuart F. Pipper became the unopposed candidate when incumbent county chairman Melvin Hunt decided not to seek re-election.

Area voters are also expected to show some interest in the candidates for delegates to their party's national conventions this summer.

Locally, Dr. Evan C. Reese is a GOP candidate with two area alternates in Glen Fisher, East Stroudsburg, and Ernest Farmer, East Stroudsburg, seeking election to the Republican convention. Two will be elected.

Only one Monroe County resident is among the 11 candidates for the Democratic convention in W. C. G. "Bud" Peterson, Stroudsburg. Four will be elected.

No area Democrats are listed as alternates.

Another statewide race for a U.S. Senatorial nomination pits incumbent Joseph S. Clark against United States Rep. John Dent of Jeanette, for the right to face unopposed GOP candidate Richard S. Schweiker, Worcester, in the November election.

The only presidential candidate on the Pennsylvania ballot is Democratic candidate Eugene J. McCarthy. Presidential write-ins are expected, however.

According to Mrs. Lovell Banks, registrar, voters may cross party lines on the presidential write-in as a Republican in a write-in for McCarthy would count as a GOP vote for the Democratic nominee.

In other races registered voters must vote for their party's candidates alone in today's election.

In districts in Pike and Wayne Counties using paper ballots, county boards of election have printed separate special ballots containing the five questions which will be available to independent voters.

In districts such as Monroe County, using voting machines, the machines are so constructed that independents may vote on the questions by themselves without participating in the political party primary.

The Pocono Record

Blood donations total 76 pints

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Red Cross collected 76 pints of blood Monday during its blood drive sponsored by four area utility companies in the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Six pints were deferred and 10 pints were given as a replacement for a recent open heart surgery undergone by Mrs. Delores O'Hara, of Wooddale Road, East Stroudsburg.

Harold W. Burch, of 24 Lions Street, East Stroudsburg began his sixth gallon Monday by giving his 41st pint.

Howard Popkin, Monroe County Red Cross Drive

chairman, expressed satisfaction with Monday's results.

He noted that this was the first time the four utility companies got together to sponsor the drive.

They are Citizens Gas, Bell Telephone, Pennsylvania Power and Light and Metropolitan Edison.

S-burg renewal plans outlined

STROUDSBURG — Michael Cabot, director of Cabot Associates, a planning firm, offered three possibilities for renewal of Stroudsburg's blighted areas during Monday night's meeting of the Better Housing Council of Monroe County in the County Courthouse.

He told council members and several First Ward residents that the First Ward could be torn down, its residents relocated, and the area redeveloped for industrial and commercial use.

His second suggestion was to tear down the Stofflet Street area and construct low income garden house apartments and then go ahead and redevelop the First Ward.

The third plan was to rehabilitate the First Ward through the enforcement of building codes which are now being considered for adoption by the Stroudsburg Borough Council.

He said that a recent Stroudsburg master plan done by his firm indicated that three types of urban renewal action were proposed for Stroudsburg.

They were Conservation Action, Rehabilitation Action and Clearance and Redevelopment. The master plan recommended three specific areas in Stroudsburg for clearance and redevelopment: portions of the Core area along Ann St., Stofflet St. section and the entire Flats (First Ward) area.

In discussing the First Ward area the master plan recommended demolition of many of the existing structures and a re-planning of the entire area.

Cabot discussed the Federal Housing Administration's Title One property improvement loans for First Ward residents seeking to fix up their homes.

A resident can obtain an insured loan up to $3,500 for home improvement, provided that he owns his own home and has a good credit rating. He also said there are loans up to $1,500 for converting houses into two or more dwelling units.

Cabot said the Stroudsburg officials were moving in the right direction towards the enforcement of housing codes and facing up to the problem of more and better housing in the area.

His own recommendation was developed in the Stofflet Area so that the First Ward could be redeveloped.

He further recommended that a survey of First Ward residents be made to determine their wishes on either redeveloping the First Ward or rehabilitating the rundown homes.

Jacket enters jail break

STROUDSBURG — A prisoner who escaped from Monroe County jail last Wednesday and then died in an auto accident may have died in a stolen jacket which was stolen 24 hours before the jail break.

Monday, James Reynolds of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2, said he has established that William Korocay was wearing a jacket which was stolen from his car early Tuesday morning.

Korocay and Edward Gearhart are believed to have made their short-lived break for freedom early Wednesday morning.

Reynolds said that he has been informed that his jacket has been destroyed because it was covered with blood from the accident.

Reynolds notified Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg Control Center that his jacket was missing Tuesday at 2:01 p.m.

Sheriff Forrest Sebring said Monday that knives stolen from a sporting goods shop recently were not found in Gearhart's possession as reported, but found in the jail during a "shake-down."

Tax lien filed against gas dealer

STROUDSBURG — A tax lien was filed in the office of the Prothonotary in the Monroe County Courthouse Monday against Steven A. Mullins, proprietor of the Mount Pocono Esso Service station at Routes 611 and 940 in Mt. Pocono.

The Philadelphia office of the Internal Revenue Service claims that it is owed $418 from June 30 to Oct. 6, 1967.

TIRAC reactivates agency committee

PHILADELPHIA — Frank Dressler, executive director of the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council (TIRAC) Monday was named acting chairman of the reactivated Intra Agency Committee.

The long defunct Intra Agency Committee was reactivated during a meeting 10 a.m. yesterday in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineer's offices, Philadelphia.

The 35 member special committee consists of representatives from state and federal agencies who are connected or influenced by the Tocks Island Reservoir and Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

The committee was reactivated to coordinate activities of federal and state agencies working on projects related to Tocks. Dressler said that about 25 representatives attended the meeting.

The committee was formed in 1963, but has not met since Oct. 28, 1965.

Dressler said the officials agreed the committee should be reactivated and said that meetings should be conducted not less than twice a year. The next meeting was scheduled for some time this fall in the Stroudsburg area.

Representatives of the various agencies gave progress reports on the various projects they are engaged in.

Dressler is scheduled to give a status report on the Tocks Island project during the ninth annual meeting of the Delaware River Basin Water Resource Association May 10 in Wilmington, Del.

Other speakers at the resource association meeting will be: Lloyd R. Leslie, association president; Dr. Franklin C. Daiber, Marine Laboratories of Delaware University; Elliott M. Cushing, U. S. Geological Survey.

Barrett Club not endorsing Atty. Krawitz

CRESKO — The President of the Barrett Twp. Republican Club Monday night emphasized that the club has not endorsed any of the three candidates seeking the party's nomination in 139th Representative District.

George Sopko said published statements attributed to Mrs. Joan Coffman during a recent club meeting were not made by Mrs. Coffman at the meeting.

Mrs. Coffman, who is a member of the Citizens for Atty. Edwin Krawitz Committee, was urging Republicans to vote for the East Stroudsburg lawyer.

Sopko said the club, according to its by-laws, refrains from making official endorsements during primary elections.

JIM MURRAY

Bob Goalby's big mistake

LAS VEGAS — It is the dream of every golfer in the world someday to win the Masters.

But, take it from a guy who's been there, it ain't worth it.

Bob Goalby won the Masters after 10 years of trying. It may have been the biggest mistake of his life.

Bob is teetering on the brink of a place in history along with the guy who shot Santa Claus, ate with his fingers at the queen's banquet, or put poison ivy in a Mother's Day bouquet — the kind of guy who would throw a brick through a Rembrandt.

He's the only guy in history who won a major tournament with a pencil on the 18th hole, and the public is insulted.

Consider the heinousness of Goalby's crime, and Jack the Ripper comes across by comparison as a nice old fellow who helps old ladies across crowded streets and distributes baskets to the poor. Bob Goalby had the colossal indecency to shoot 70-70-71 and 66 at the Masters, a brilliant burst of golf which made him a worldwide villain of the magnitude of Mussolini or Al Capone. But his worst error in judgment was adding correctly. It just goes to show you how a college education can ruin a natural athlete.

As a result of his serious blunder in sinking a curling 5-foot putt on national TV with half the country looking on, Bob's name goes into the language. To "Goalby" something will now mean to win a race because the other guy fell down on a wet spot, to win a pot because the other guy didn't know he had aces or that a straight beat two pair.

You'd think he broke in and stole the green coat. You'd think it was his fault Tommy Aaron didn't know a birdie when he saw one or that Roberto de Vicenzo was playing so well he could spot the field one stroke.

"Why don't you give the green coat back?" the hate mail thundered immediately. "How dare you put it on?" "Arnold Palmer wouldn't keep it." "Why didn't you let Aaron add YOUR score?" the insults continued. The wags were out in force at the Stardust golf course demanding to know if Goalby shouldn't be disqualified for carrying a 15th club — a pencil.

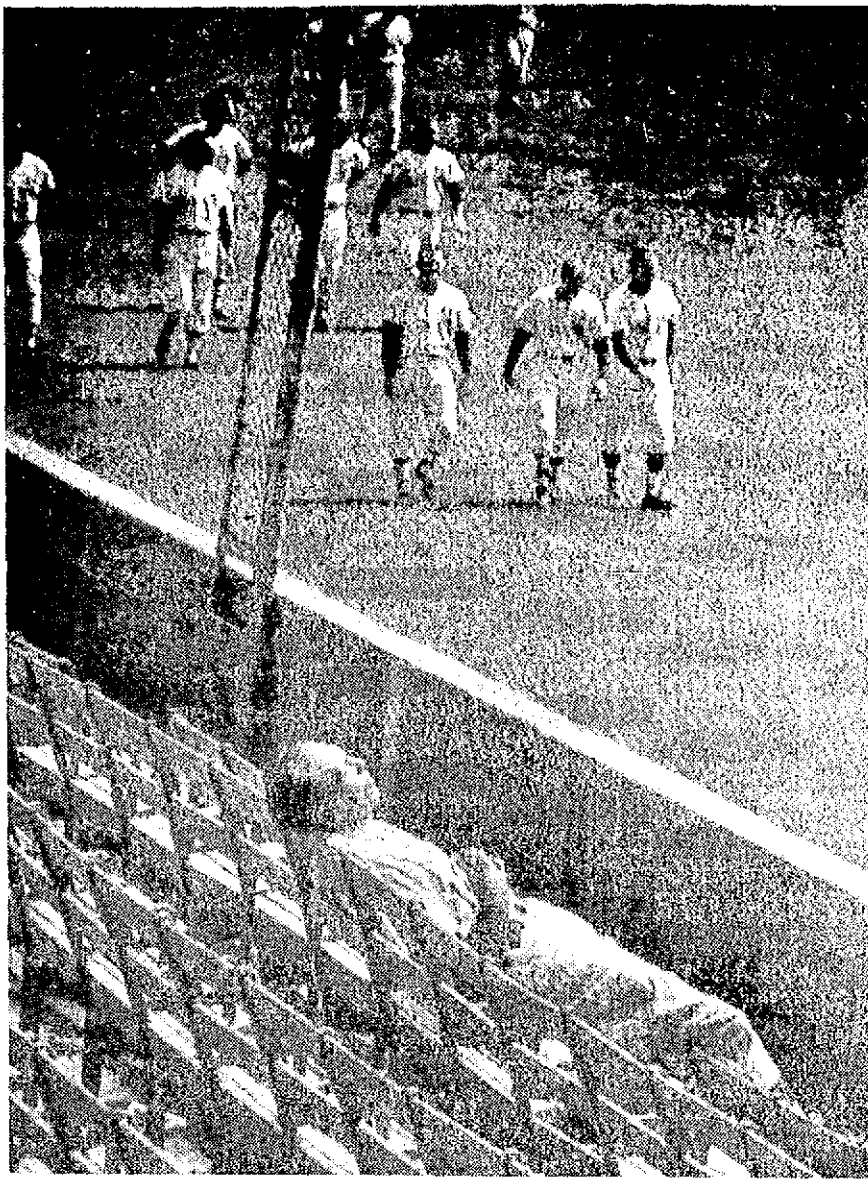

I visited this Adolf Eichmann of the links in his room at the Stardust Thursday. First of all, I was surprised he wasn't in a dungeon. Or, at least, in chains. I half-expected he would surrender himself to the nearest U.S. marshal, or would be peeking fearfully through the curtains to see if any of the people had brought a rope.

"What," he asked logically, "was I supposed to do? I found out at exactly the same time the TV public found out that Roberto had signed a wrong score."

Bob remembers walking into the Augusta TV room and being struck by the funeral air. "I thought, 'Shouldn't somebody be at least smiling?' Here I thought I had shot pretty good golf, and was in a playoff, and everybody was acting as if they just heard that Paris fell. It looked more like an autopsy than an awards ceremony. I kept looking around for the body."

A jury bringing in a verdict of death at Salem, Mass., looked more cheerful than the Augusta officials. The storied Bobby Jones excused himself from the ceremony, some think because he can't stand to see people bleed, or that he always cried at funerals.

The facts of the matter were that Roberto de Vicenzo didn't job himself out of a victory — he just penciled himself out of a tie. And five will get you 10 in most clubhouses that Goalby would have won that playoff.

Stanky not worried

If Chicago White Sox manager Eddie Stanky is worried, you'd never know it as he does a little sunbathing in stands as team works out Monday. White Sox have lost the first nine games of this season, stretching their losing streak to the longest in 12 years. Team was a preseason pick to finish way up in the league standings, but Stanky has no comment.

Wolman's plan to pay off creditors accepted by referee

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Jerry Wolman, real estate developer and owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, presented a plan Monday which would hope-fully pay off his creditors by forming a public company to operate several profitable business ventures.

The plan placed before Joseph

O. Kaiser, federal referee in Bankruptcy, would allow Wolman to retain complete ownership of the Eagles but would turn over all income from the National Football League club to the new company.

Kaiser accepted the plan and then set another hearing for May 27, giving creditors five weeks to decide whether to approve the proposal.

Unsecured creditors would be paid off in two ways. They would receive debentures in the new public company at the rate of $100 for each $500 of debt plus warrants guaranteeing them the right to purchase five shares of stock in the firm at original face value.

In addition, unsecured creditors would share 50 per cent of the profits during the next five years from five Wolman properties in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Washington, D.C.

The new public company would consist of Wolman's Yellow Cab Companies in Philadelphia and Camden, N.J., and interests in the Spectrum Arena and Connie Mack Stadium in Philadelphia, plus the income from the Eagles.

At a January hearing, Wolman listed almost $72 million in debts to 280 creditors and assets of more than $74.6 million.

His lawyer, Morris M. Waxler, said Monday both figures have changed since January but said he couldn't set a current value on either debts or assets.

Stock in the new company would be sold to the public to raise money to pay off secured debts. The plan also contemplates refinancing some of the secured debts with income from a mortgage on Wolman's lease on the Spectrum and with debentures in the public company.

Conigliaro to try pitching

BOSTON (AP) — Slugger Tony Conigliaro of the Boston Red Sox, whose playing days apparently ended with an eye injury, may try to come back as a pitcher, Manager Dick Williams says.

The 23-year-old outfielder has been working out on his own on the pitching mound and "with his determination, I wouldn't sell him short," Williams said Saturday.

Network sets college grid TV schedule

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Saturday night games and a "wild card game" are among the features of the college football program to be telecast by ABC-TV this fall, the network announced Monday.

Roone Arledge, president and executive producer of ABC Sports, said there will be a total of 35 games telecast, including 11 nationally and 24 regionally.

The two Saturday night games will be telecast nationally. The first will be the Nov. 16 Alabama-Miami, Fla., contest from Miami. The second will be the Southern California-UCLA classic the following Saturday night, Nov. 23, from Los Angeles.

Actually, the USC-UCLA game will be a night affair for only part of the country. It is scheduled to start at 6 p.m., EST.

Under the "wild card game" arrangement, ABC will be able to pick one extra game on any date during the season and telecast it. A game or games already scheduled for that date still will be telecast.

Arledge said there was a third new feature in the agreement with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Tiger wears drab uniform proudly

NEW YORK (AP) — The olive drab uniform on Dick Tiger brought the war in Nigeria a little closer to home. It may be an obscure skirmish to some but to Tiger it is a life and death struggle.

At the age of 39, Tiger proudly wears the shoulder star and emblem of a lieutenant in the Nigerian Army, currently engaged in a bitter war with the Nigerian Federal Army.

No longer does Tiger, the world light heavyweight boxing champion, wish to be known as a Nigerian.

"They are all out to kill everyone of us," said Tiger. "In times like these, everybody has to help. I volunteered to be able to help. I train some boys. We run and run every day."

Tiger was flown out of Biafra in a special government plane in order that he can earn a purse of $100,000 for defending his championship in the 175-pound class against Bob Foster of Washington May 24 at Madison Square Garden.

"I will train very hard, and I will do my very best to win," he said Monday. But his mind seemed to be occupied with thoughts of home and the family of seven that remained behind.

A writer asked Tiger if he still is popular in the rest of Nigeria, where he had been a folk hero when he won the middleweight title in 1962.

"No," he said, shaking his head. "The government makes the people hate us. They would like to kill all of us."

Not funny now

Atlanta Braves catcher, Joe Torre eats lunch in his hospital room in Atlanta Monday. Torre, sporting a "shiner" as result of having been hit by pitch in a game with Chicago last Thursday, suffered hair-line fractures in his nose and mouth. The usually jovial Torre did not smile when he said, "It only hurts when I laugh." Torre is expected to be out of action for at least two more weeks.

Fellencer, Goldy take '840' leads

STROUDSBURG — The second set of three games of the '840 Classic' nine game finals was rolled Sunday at Colonial Lanes.

Doris Fellencer of Stroudsburg increased her lead by two pins to 97, by scoring 340 yesterday for a 6-game total of 1115. Shirley Hagerty of Stroudsburg scored 538 yesterday for a 6-game total of 1018.

The men were all even at the end of the first three games with a 536 total. Sunday Bob Goldy grabbed a 28 pin advantage by rolling a 583 for a six game total of 1119 while Orl Peechatka of Tannersville was scoring 555 for a six game total of 1001.

The last three games of the finals will be rolled next Sunday at 1 p.m. at Colonial Lanes. The match will be broadcast by WVPO-FM.

Luber, Landscaping and Plants & Design Center

Plants and Design Center, Lenox Ave., East Stroudsburg, boasts one of the finest Landscaping departments in the area. Headed by Herman Luber, Plants and Design's Landscaping department is a complete operation from exciting design to dramatic finish.

Luber's mastery at design stems from intensive schooling and work experience. The 28 year old landscape architect was graduated from St. Michael's High School, Union City, New Jersey in 1957, he then attended the State University of New York from 1957 to 1959. In 1962 Luber received a B.S. degree in Landscape Architecture from the University of Georgia.

Luber then became a consulting architect with the New York firm of Clark and Rapano until 1965 and then he was consultant to Buck Hill Country Club, worked on a public housing project in Allentown, and free-lanced for architects in Scranton and Easton. At present Luber is co-owner of the Plants and Design Center and head of the Landscape Department.

During the Summer of 1962, Luber traveled extensively through eleven European countries studying the new towns of Hawlow, Crawley and Coventry in England and the new satellite cities of Stockholm, Sweden. In the Winter of 1966 he toured through Mexico.

Among Luber's many achievements is Second place award in competition at New York University for landscape design of Republic Aviation Corp. new Research Center in Farmingdale, N. Y., Jackson and Perkins Rose Garden competition, honorable mention in 1959 and The New York City Flower Show, 1959, first place class award, best in show for Naturalistic Garden. He was also cited for his designs of the African Pavilion, sections of the Gas Pavilion and Travelers Insurance Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

Under Herman Luber's supervision the Plants and Design Center's Landscaping department has the knowledge and experience to advise, plan and estimate a partial or complete landscaping for homes, commercial and industrial operations.

But Plants and Design Center is far more than a Landscaping operation, it is a complete garden center with everything from grass seed, lawn fertilizer to shrubs, trees and flowers.

Garden Center manager and Co-owner, Ed Flory is a Graduate of Pennsylvania State University where he received a B.S. degree in Ornamental Horticulture in 1961. Ed is a native of East Stroudsburg and an expert in designing, planting and caring for all types of plants, lawns and gardens.

Rounding out Plants and Design's image as a complete Lawn, Garden and Landscaping operation is Co-owner Clemence Gower a Horticulturist. Gower is a native of Nazareth, Pa. where he operated a farm and nursery for 14 years.

This weekend visit Plants and Design Center when they have their official Spring Opening. There will be many specials and other exciting products to make yours the Home Beautiful.

Ann Landers

Too many questions

Dear Ann Landers: I met an attractive woman three months ago. (She was waiting for a bus.) We have been going out regularly, once a week, and I enjoy her company. Yvonne is divorced and has two children which the judge awarded to her husband. She is not allowed to see them, which I find very hard to understand. According to her, the judge gave her a rotten deal.

Some small things about Yvonne bother me and I'd like your views. She refuses to give me her phone number; says she lives in a boarding house where the people are very nosy. She won't let me pick her up at home, and I have never been allowed to see her to the door. Her self-imposed "curfew" is 10 p.m. (She says she had TB years ago and must have a lot of rest.)

I have never met any of her friends or relatives and she will not tell me where she works — says it is "confidential" for the government. What do you make of this?

ALFIE

Dear Alfie: A lady who can't be picked up or taken home, refuses to tell you where she works, won't give you her phone number and has to be in by 10 p.m. is hiding something — like maybe a husband. My advice is to knock off this spooky arrangement.

I hope you make a better selection next time, Alfie, and your chances will be vastly improved if you don't go in for bus stop pickups.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this for all the stupid girls in the world who are seeing men who are separated but not divorced. Maybe if I had seen a letter like it three years ago

I wouldn't be so full of nerve medicine that I can barely write this letter.

In 1965 I fell hard for a man who said I was his dream girl. He and his wife were not getting along and a divorce was in the works. I let him move in with the understanding that we would be married as soon as his divorce came through.

A few months later when his divorce was final he said he wasn't ready to "give up his freedom yet."

Three years have passed and he still isn't ready. He is out four nights a week and I pace the floor smoking and crying. I am 26 years old and broke.

I pay most of the bills. My reputation is ruined and my health is shot. I know now he will never marry me but I still love him in spite of everything. If you care to add something to my letter that might help others, please do so. It's too late to help me.

DESTROYED AT 26
Dear D: I have nothing to add. You've said it all.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

Kearn earns promotion

HARRISBURG — Cpl. Alexander G. Kearn of Stroudsburg, was among 30 corporals promoted to sergeant by Col. Frank McKetta, State Police commissioner.

Kearn, a more than 20-year veteran of the State Police is being transferred from the Easton Barracks to Troop M Headquarters in Bethlehem.

Sgt. Kearn had been stationed in every station in Monroe County before being transferred to Easton several years ago.

JACK O'BRIAN'S

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Now who better than Henny Youngman should be star of the annual dinner of New York's Metropolitan Delicatessen Dealers Assn. at the Roosevelt Hotel April 28? (Henny's contract calls for a six-foot salami plus his fee.)

Playwright Robert Anderson, actor Richard Widmark and writer William Styron bought one big hill in Rosbury, Conn., and will rebuild authentic Revolutionary era homes on same. Rich lady in Warren, Conn., keeps her 29-year-old horse luxuriously — right in her house. Dobbin has the run of all rooms and floors.

Sophie Tucker's manager-brother-hair Aloe Abaza's just back from a five-month world tour and told friends he'll spend the rest of his life — traveling. TV-month Virginia Graham settled her suit by Buddy Allen (he claimed he created her "Girl Talk" show) for $3,000.

IBM has its "THINK" signs everywhere but 20th-Fox publicity office walls shriek "Be Brazen!"

This too is showbiz: Christine Nady, former star of the Broadway Latin Quarter and the Paris Folies Bergere now is starring in La Cloakroom at L'Etoile. There's a hippie secondhand shop in Los Angeles called "Zsa Zsa."

Noted poet to read at ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — Theodore Weiss, the noted poet, will present a poetry reading in the East Stroudsburg State College auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Dr. Ester Larson, head of ESSC's English department, said that there is no admission charge and that the public is invited to attend.

Weiss was a professor of English literature at Bard College in 1967 and has been the poet-in-residence at Princeton University. He has also taught at the University of Maryland, North Carolina, Yale, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He has published "The Quarterly Review of Literature" for twenty years. In 1953, Weiss received a Ford Fellowship and in 1956 he won first prize in the Wallace Stevens Awards.

The author of many publications, such as "The Medium", "The Catch", "Outlanders", and a book-length narrative poem, "Gunsight", Weiss is in demand as a speaker. He was also a judge of poetry for this year's National Book Awards.

Three couples seeking licenses

STROUDSBURG — Marriage licenses were issued in the Monroe County Courthouse this week to:

Paul D. Ligue, 26, Tobyhanna and Sandra E. Keiper, 20, Tobyhanna.

Donald L. Bentzoni, 28, East Stroudsburg and Prudence J. Martin, 18, Stroudsburg.

Joseph Walton, 78, Orange City, Fla. and Olga Wurret, 62, Daytona Beach, Fla.

All the ex-pugs are taking up acting so Floyd Patterson may be next. Okay, we've now heard the rumor three times — the country's most famous Protestant politician may turn Catholic. Les Crane on the Merv Griffin show was so filled with his own news-magazine culture that he was "revealing" secrets known for years.

Rudy Tellez (who wed Johnny Carson's secretary Regina) is expected to become the next "Tonight" show producer.

The sad irony of the gospel for the Mass the day after Martin Luther King was killed (about one man who must die for all the people) extends to the Offertory Antiphon of the Mass the day Dr. King was buried: "Ps 139: 5 Save me, O Lord, from the hands of the wicked; preserve me from violent men." (Thank you Mrs. W. J. Magee of Brooklyn.)

Former Texas governor and senator W. Lee "Pappy" O'Daniel's son Pat is running for the Texas governor's job on a platform notably including a "demand" for a state-of-Texas "official" investigation of JFK's assassination; Pat claims 80 per cent of Texans (by poll) want the answers. Doesn't everyone?

Their husbands remain in the limelight but Mrs. George Raft lives quietly in Montauk, L. I. and Mrs. Jackie Gleason on swanky Central Park South. Know why Garbo wants to be alone? Her passion is snails washed in garlic; dozens, with vodka. Remember the way-out costume Rudolph Nureyev wore escorting Princess Meg at some London party? Well Hope Hampton, somewhere between 65 and a million, sauntered into Miss Lacey's club in the same thigh-high black velvet breeches, jacket and sombrero to match.

Heavyweight part-champ Joe Frazier reports a $200,000 offer from British promoter Mike Burrell to fight Edouardo Corlelli. The New York "gay" set envies 125 of its members who had a sublimely swish time at the Carnival in Rio. They flew of course; in a chartered plane this time. Gina Lollo fired her chauffeur after her Rolls went to the garage for a $4,700 post-crash repair bill. Had to pay for the truck it hit, too.

The same Ford Co. limo LBJ uses on his Manhattan visits will be at the proletarian back-and-forth daily of Ludmilla Savelyeva, star of the Russian "War & Peace" movie for the nine days she'll be here; of course not if LBJ turns up unexpectedly (they'll share?). (Let us reason together, Lud).

Peggy Fleming's plans don't include a big-arena skating show in the near future; first a couple of NBC specials and a Hollywood movie. Girls Gigg Young and Jack Cassidy batch-it at Goldie's New York after their shows are finished nightly.

Famed Flamenco dancer Trini Reyes retired to Spain to open a dress shop in Benidorm; that's Spain's Miami Beach. It took the delicious goodies at the hot new Camelot Restaurant to make Jack E. Leonard plop off the Dessert Wagon. Accommodating fella, Jeremy Slate — wife Tammy Grimes was busy rehearsing her Broadway play so Jer picked up the Mexican divorce papers in Juarez.

If Columbia decides on a Negro version of "Pal Joey" gifted young soul singer Lou Rawls probably will get the part Gene Kelly originated on Broadway and Sinatra imitated in films. It would be fun casting it: Pearl Bailey for the older-gal role, Diahann Carroll for the young girl; sounds like a hit all ready. Actor with his heart set on politics has his mouth set on too many bottles — again.

Sally Ann Howes and Jeff Hunter proclaimed their romance "officially over". Robert Goulet and Carol Lawrence were so romantic at Hawaii Kai you'd never think they were old married people. Ava Gardner's surgery came off fine. Just to change the decor of his Hollywood bathrooms, Laurence Harvey summoned architect Don Hensman all the way to Beirut to plan their redesign. Rod Steiger's standin for "The Illustrated Man" is Chester Hayes, veteran of some 4,000 wrestling bouts.

Rocky Graziano's hippie-locket worn with turtle-necks once was his gift to wife Norma — the Rock showed them at Christo's steakery — AAU golden diamond-studded boxing gloves he won in 1942.

Chairman of the New Rochelle Safety Council is David O. Alber, whose license plates bear the grim initials "DOA". Hazel Scott, once so round and zoffie, is down to a size nine. Bing's wife is writing a series of kiddie books; her "Bing and Other Things" English rights just were peddled (them as has, etc.).

The Fred Warings Jr. named the lad Brandon Frederic. Comedienne Vicki Stuart and comic Lou Menchel named their new little blue diaper Roland Saul. Guess who's wearing hippie-heads-about town: George Abbott the producer who's pushing 80 — from the other side!

SCRANTON — A record budget of $94,900 was approved for the nine-county area of the Tuberculosis and Health Society of Northeast Pennsylvania, Carl T. Secor, president, announced.

The budget was approved during the annual program and budget meeting last Thursday, including provisions for increased tuberculin testing and diabetes detection programs, services to patients and expansion in professional education service. The society also approved a larger grant to research and fellowship.

The Northeast Society includes Upper Luzerne, Susquehanna, Pike, Wayne, Tioga, Wyoming, Monroe, Bradford, Sullivan and Lackawanna counties.
